THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1873,

LOCAL ITEMS. THE KNIFE. Edward Danis Stabbed and Killed

with a Pocket-knife. esterday morning, about half-past 1 o'clock, occurred another tragedy, resulting in the death of an ordinarily peaceable man. The man who killed him has also been known, heretofore, as a quiet, unoffending person. The facts brought out in evidence before the Coroner's jury are the following:

Edward Danis, known also as Frenchy," was born about 70 miles from Sorelle, in Canada East, and had a father living in St. Davids, Canada. He, with several others, was in Schultzbacker's dance-house, on Meadow Valley street, some time after midnight. He seemed to be intoxicated, and slapped the face of a man named Mulcaby. inoffensive man," and told him that he was drunk and should not have slapped his face. Danis put his arms around Mulcahy's neck and said, "I guess I'm acquainted with this man," whereupon McCullough said, "I didn't know you were acquainted." Frenchy replied that he didn't give a d—n; and if he (McC.) wanted to pick a fight he could have one, and slapping his hand against the counter said he cared for no one. Wm. H. Soule said, "Come and let's have another dance," and the quarrel was stopped for the time. Danis left the house after that, and came back within an hour after the first difficulty. A pocket knife had been seen (just after Danis slapped Mulcahy), in the hands of McCullough, who, perceiving that the knife was observed, covered the exposed.

In the procession passed, and the procession passed, and the sorrowful faces of those who followed the hearse, gave token of how dearly the little boy was loved by almost the whole town. The man who committed the foolish act, Tesulting in his death, needs no reproof. The knowledge of the deep affliction of his parents and the sorrow of the comminity will be punishment more severe than any that his fellow-creatures could inflict. The parents have lost a fair, charged the fatal shot knows that he has stopped for the time. Danis left the counter of the committed dimest a murder. Whose affliction is the greater?

A Fight.—At about 6 o'clock last evening a fight took place between two miners at a Meadow Valley street saloon. It was a genuine rough and tumble fight. meaning Wednesday morning). Danis said Well I don't give a G-d d-n for you, to which the other returned "Well, don't suppose you do, Frenchy." Soule said, "boys that's been fixed before. Come, let's have another dance." McCallough, who was still standing against the bar, with his back to it, said "Yes, let's have another dance." De-"Yes, let's have another dance." Deceased who was standing, partly in front of him, said, "McCullough, I've got but one hand [his left hand was disabled and tied up] but it's a G—d d—n good one." One witness also testified that Danis said, "I have only one hand, and I've got nothing," meaning that he had no weapons. Danis struck McCullough first, and McCullough returned the blow, upon his opponent's neck, whence the blood immediately came in a stream. James Davis at this moment cried out the's cut," and drew a pistol. Ben. 'hie's cut,' and drew a pistol. Ben, Hyde who was near him grasped the weapon to keep him from firing. Meanwhile McCullough handed the pocket-kinfe to Wm. H. Soule, and ran out through the front door. Hyde then let loose his hold, and Davis ran after the homicida who shortly after van heek into

By this time the floor was covered with blood, and the man was evidently in a dying condition. He died shortly after, from loss of blood, though the physicians had permitted little to escape after their ar-Soule, to whom the knife had be given, hid it under a wood-pile, and in the morning delivered it to Sheriff Travis. morning delivered it to Sheriff Travis. The funeral of Matthew Cahill, aged four years and five months, who died by the hand of a careless marksman, took place yesterday, from the residence of his parents, on Upper Main street. First in the procession came the members of the Hook and Ladder Company, for little Matt was a fireman. Following was a buggy containing Rev. Father Monteverde, and after this the hearse, with twelve pall-bearers. The children of the public school were in the procession, and a long line of footmen, among whom were many of our most respected cities. and a long line of footmen, among whom were many of our most respected citi-zens, followed them. In the rear were a score of carriages, and as many horse-men. Altogether there were in the pro-cession nearly four hundred persons. The sidewalks were lined with specta-tors along the switching. The sidewalks were lined with specta-tors along the route of the procession, which went down Main street, to La-cour, down Lacour to Pioche, down Pioche to Hoffman, down Hoffman to Main, up Main to Meadow Valley, up Meadow Valley to Cedar, and up Cedar to the Catholic Church, where the body was left, and whence it will be taken to

A FRENCH writer, in estimating the fu ture of science, points out that in fifty or a hundred years the English language will in all probability be spoken by eight hundred and sixty millions of individuals, while the German will be the lan-guage of 120,000,000 and the French of 69,000,000 only, and that in consequence science is likely to seek English chan-nels of publication, scientific books hav-ing at best a limited sale, and necessa-rily seeking the widest audience.

WHILE fishing from the wharf the other day at San Diego, a man found an ordin-ary black quart bottle hanging to his line. Examination showed that the bot-tle was inhabited by a devil fish, that had gone into it when small and grown to so large a size that it could not es. The bottle was broken off, and the escaping, soon after died.
